FOUR CENTS

YANKS OPEN NEW ASSAULT ON OKINAWA

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

You're reading constantly in the Record-Herald about different Fayette County servicemen receiving different medals. But nine out of ten of us civilians don't know what they're for.

Of all the decorations, the Purple Heart is the oldest. It is awarded to men who are wounded as a result of enemy action and was first known as the Badge of Military Merit. George Washington established it in 1782.

The good conduct medals are as familiar to most as the purple heart is. They are awarded enlisted men for fidelity, zeal and obedience. A year's service is usually required before a man is eligible for one of them.

The Distinguished Service cross is awarded for extraordinary heroism against an armed enemy. It is the second highest Army award. Comparable to it is the Navy Cross, awarded on the same basis. It was authorized in 1918.

The Distinguished Service Medal, both Army and Navy, is given for exceptionally meritorious service to the Government in a duty of great responsibility. The service need not be in combat.

The Silver and Bronze Stars are comparatively recent awards. The Silver Star was created in 1932 to replace the custom of superimposing a small silver star on campaign ribbons to denote battle citations for gallantry. The Bronze Star is for gallantry not warranting a Silver Star.

The Legion of Merit was created by Congress in 1942 and is awarded for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services. It is frequently a reward to men for performing difficult jobs of organization and supply far behind the battle lines. In addition, it may be awarded to members of the armed forces and civilians of friendly foreign nations.

Highest award for airmen only is the Distinguished Flying Cross, awarded to any person in the Air Force of any of the services who distinguishes himself by heroism or extraordinary achievement while participating in an aerial flight. Awarded where the service does not warrant a DFC, the Air Medal was established in 1942 and is seen only on flying men. It is usually given for a specified number of combat missions.

The Presidential Unit Citations — both Army and Navy — are decorations en masse. They are awarded to units, like a division, or the crew of a specific ship, for outstanding performance in action. The Soldiers' Medal is awarded to any person distinguishing himself by heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy. The Navy and Marine Corps Medal is its counterpart.

The American Defense ribbon, more commonly known as the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, is for service between September 8, 1939 and December 7, 1941. A bronze star can be worn on it if any of this service was outside the continental limits of the United States.

The Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon shows 30 days or more assigned to service in India, China, Hawaii or the South Pacific. The American Theater ribbon denotes service in the western hemisphere outside the continental limits of the United States. The European Theater ribbon covers service in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Greenland and Iceland.

A medal or decoration is only awarded once. Should any action subsequently warrant a second award, a bronze Oak Leaf Cluster or Star is added to the ribbon already won. Five bronze Oak Leaves or Stars are replaced by one similar device in Silver.

HIGHEST RED MEDAL GIVEN EISENHOWER

Britain's Montgomery Also Similarly Decorated

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, June 11.—(AP)—Soviet Russia and the Allies are united in a desire for a lasting, firmly-based peace which will afford the common man of all nations the "opportunities that we fought to preserve for them."

Gen. Eisenhower asserted yesterday before high ranking leaders of Britain, Russia and the United States.

The Supreme Allied commander and Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery both received from Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov the Jeweled Order of Victory. It was the first time Soviet Russia's highest award had been presented to any but Russians. Eisenhower was the eighth person to receive the award, and the British field marshal, the ninth.

THIRD, SEVENTH ARMIES WILL OCCUPY GERMANY

PARIS, June 11.—(AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today the U. S. Third and Seventh armies would occupy American zones in Germany, making Lt. Gen. Leonard G. Row's 15th Army "available for a possible shift to the Pacific."

The newspaper, in a dispatch from Wiesbaden, Germany, said this did not mean troops now serving in the Third and Seventh were destined for occupation duty, necessarily, since redeployment was bringing about almost complete revampment of personnel.

The Ninth Army will halt operations in Germany next Friday.

Petain Defends Himself In Pre-Trial Questions

PARIS, June 11.—(AP)—Marshal Petain said today he had asked an armistice as "the only way to preserve France." He told a commission, questioning him in prelude to his trial, that the action "prevented France from becoming another Poland."

Asked why he requested an armistice, Petain answered:

"It was the only way to preserve France. I believed more than ever that the armistice has been a savior. It assured the liberty of hundreds of thousands of soldiers who would have been made prisoners. It enabled the existence of a free zone, preserved in integrity of the French empire and favored a landing of the Anglo-Saxons."

Lt. Col. M. L. McClung, clinical director at Aspinwall, denied last week that the body was shipped from the hospital. He said it was removed by a representative of the Wilson Funeral Home in Bridgeport, Ohio.

MILLIONS SPENT BY FOREIGNERS ON PROPAGANDA

Eighteen Countries Maintain Agencies in U. S. - Russia Not Among Registered

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Attorney General Biddle told Congress today foreign government propaganda activities in this country have become costlier and of a more polished type.

In a report on Administration of Foreign Agents Registration Act from June 28, 1942, through December 31, Biddle estimated more than 12,000 different items of propaganda in 26 languages have been filed annually with the Justice Department.

He added that organizations and individuals associated with 34 foreign governments are participating in propaganda or publicity activities in this country.

The most important propaganda organizations, Biddle said, are official information centers maintained in the United States by 18 foreign governments. He said the 15 principal ones increased their annual expenditures in this country from $2,873,000 in 1942 to $5,368,000 in 1944.

The Soviet Union, the report said, does not maintain an official information agency "but conducts parallel activities by other means in large parts not subject to the (Foreign Agents Registration) act."

3 JAP PLANES CRASH WHILE CHASING YANK

Flier Previously Had Shot Down Two in Battle

By AL DOPKING
AN ADVANCED ARMY AIR FORCE BASE, June 11.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Fighter Pilot Robert J. Stone of Tracy, Minn., today knocked down five Japanese planes—three without using his guns—in a raid by the Army's 318th fighter group on southern Kyushu Island.

All together the group bagged 17 planes.

Lt. Stone was jumped by 25 Nipponese planes after he had shot down two fighters and went from 28,000 feet altitude "down to the deck" to try to shake his pursuers.

"I was practically dragging my belly on the ground when we raced across an airfield," he said. "A Jap twin engine bomber had just taken off right in front of me."

"I yanked back on the stick to hop over the bomber and his prop wash must have hit the two Jap fighters right behind me."

ONLY SEVEN ATTEND OHIO GAR MEETING

COLUMBUS, June 11.—(AP)—Seven members of the Grand Army of the Republic, whose ages total 687 years, met here today in the Annual Ohio GAR Encampment.

The remainder of the state's 23 GAR members were unable to attend.

The seven veterans of the Civil War will elect a commander. Their present chief is Lewis H. Hieston, 96, of Pleasantville, and his successor probably will be 98-year old John Grate of Atwater, present vice commander.

Six of the veterans arrived yesterday in State Highway Patrol Cars. James K. Polk Barker of Columbus, will join them today. He is 97.

The oldest is John R. Bennett, 100, of Waynesville. Commander Hieston at 96 is the youngest.

There are two brother veterans, believed to be the last in the state. They are John, 99, and Hiram Conrad, 98, of Alliance.

The seventh delegate is Frederick Pfister of Cincinnati, 99-year old post commander.

Gen. Stilwell Says Fight May Go On in Manchuria

By ROGER GEIGER

OKINAWA, June 7.—(Delayed by Censor)—(AP)—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, making a frontline inspection of the stubborn Okinawa battle, declared today the war with Japan easily could last at least two years longer.

"It is quite possible that we will have to fight in Manchuria," he said, even after the Japanese home islands are conquered.

"Personally I believe it will require ground action in addition to anything done by bombings," said the commanding general of army ground forces.

Stating that he saw no reason to expect the Japanese to break, Stilwell remarked, "I cannot see how, when they are so tenacious individually, we can expect their mass morale to crack."

"Vinegar Joe," who had already watched the U. S. Sixth Army in action on Luzon in the Philippines, has been here several days, watching the hard struggle of the troops whose training is his responsibility.

LAUSCHE'S BOUQUET GOES TO SHERIFF

Madison County Officer Cleaned Up Gambling

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—(AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today commended Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell of Madison County for his "excellent work" in eliminating commercial gambling houses.

The governor added in a letter to the sheriff at nearby London: "Word has reached me that you are being pressured to relax your efforts of cleaning the community of places which, on a large scale, have exploited the public, your resistance to this pressure will be redound to your political and personal success."

"The operators of these places resort to devious methods in trying to break through the armor of decency of public officials of your character. They are astounded when they encounter some one who is unwilling to yield to their pressure. You are one of them, and I commend you for it."

Sheriff Bidwell took office in January.

FATHER DROWNS 5 CHILDREN AND, SELF WHEN SIXTH BORN

Bryan, O., June 11.—(7AP)—Coroner C. Paul Ward returned a homicide - suicide. Verdict in the deaths of Alfred Stoner and his five children whose bodies were removed from a water-filled gravel pit near here last night.

Ward reported that the 38-year-old father, who received a medical discharge from the army two weeks ago, plunged the family automobile into the pit Saturday, the day after Mrs. Stoner gave birth to a sixth child in Wauseon Hospital.

A note found in Stoner's wallet indicated he had planned the drownings, the coroner said.

The bodies of four of the children were found in the auto.

JINX FALKENBURG WED TO FORMER EDITOR

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—In a romantic pause between their war duties overseas, film starlet Jinx Falkenburg, 26, and Lt. Col. John R. (Tex) McCrary, 34, former editorial writer of the New York Daily Mirror, were married here yesterday.

As the plane swung upward again, a machine gun snarled from a camouflaged position ashore. Bullets tore through the left wing. Flames leaped menacingly.

Second Lt. Irving Charno, the pilot, whirled the bomber upward and tried to shake out the fire. It was no use. Flames spread towards the cockpit, so he and the crew "ditched" their plane in the sea.

Besides the pilot, two men got out. They were 2nd Lt. Harold V. Sturm, co-pilot, and Sgt. Robert Tukul, radioman. The three other members of the crew went down with the wreck.

Japs Vent Fear of B-29s By Clubbing Prisoners

By TOM REEDY

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The Japanese are so stung by Superfortress blows they no longer can hide it even from their prisoners of war.

A B-29 pilot who spent four and a half months in a Japanese prison camp at Rangoon, Burma, made this discovery.

Capt. Robert C. Shanks, Jr., 25, of Grand Prairie, Tex., told in an interview today how he and his crew of 10 were mistreated, underfed, clubbed and humiliated.

They bailed out of a damaged B-29 after a bombing strike at rail yards in Rangoon.

"It was awful one day after we apparently hit Japan pretty hard. The airmen really got it in that prison camp then."

Shanks lost 50 pounds from December 14, 1944, until May, 1945. The crew was liberated when the 14th Army and the Royal Navy joined in the final conquest of Burma.

In the group was one flier who flew from the United States to Calcutta as a replacement and went along with Shanks on the mission as an observer. It was just 18 days for him from the States to a prison camp.

"We had to laugh," Shanks confessed. He recalled the man as Lt. Robert Derrington of Ohio, but he didn't know his home town.

SOLUTION IS HINTED IN POLISH PROBLEM

MOSCOW, June 11.—(AP)—Foreign diplomats said today they understood news on the Polish question which would be welcomed in all Allied capitals would be forthcoming soon.

Foreign observers here said they had noted a "considerable improvement" in the atmosphere of Russian-American relations growing out of Harry Hopkins' visit.

(Hopkins left Paris today to report to President Truman. It was speculated in the French capital that he was taking back plans for a big three meeting. He appeared in high spirits.)

DAYTON MAN BACK IN JAIL FOR ABDUCTION OF GIRL

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 11.—(AP)—Thomas McDonald, 50-year-old Dayton, O., business man once accused of kidnapping a 21-year-old girl, was in the Mer-shall County jail again today, on a charge of possessing a deadly weapon, Sheriff Porter Richards disclosed.

McDonald had been under $2,000 bond to await action of the grand jury, which meets tomorrow, on a charge of abducting Jayne Paynter of Cameron last Tuesday.

Prosecutor J. K. Chase disclosed, however, that no presentment would be submitted in the abduction case. Chase said the girl married a service man and is now residing in California. The state does not have evidence to proceed, he added.

Richards said the second arrest occurred in Wheeling after members of the Mack Paynter family at Cameron reported mysterious telephone calls asking about Jane and her whereabouts.

A search resulted in the discovery of McDonald in a Wheeling hotel, registered as Ed Finn, the sheriff said.

Richards announced that a close guard had been placed over the defendant who during his previous incarceration attempted to kill himself.

GEN PATTON TEACHES OLD SUNDAY SCHOOL

Know God's Importance When You Meet Him, He Says

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., said he hoped the army would let him take today off, to visit old friends.

Gen. James H. Doolittle, co-recipent of the rip-roaring two-day reception southern California ever staged for a couple of conquering heroes, prepared to leave for Seattle and an appearance there tomorrow.

Yesterday morning Patton attended services at his boyhood house of worship, the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in nearby San Gabriel, and joined the Sunday School children in singing, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The white-haired general, clad in battle dress and five bows of campaign ribbons, told the awed youngsters:

"You never know how important God is until you meet him."

MOST CATTLE GET 50 CENT SUBSIDY

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Seventy-three percent of the cattle marketed at the Chicago stock yards during the first four days of last week were eligible for the 50-cent direct feeder subsidy.

Trade sources said 31,955 head sold during the four-day period qualified for additional payments totalling $170,000.

The payments of 50 cents a live hundredweight for good and choice cattle averaging 800 pounds or more are designed to encourage farmers to feed more cattle to heavier weights and to improve distribution by directing more cattle to authorized slaughterers.

THE WAR TODAY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for MacKenzie)

Woven into Justice Robert H. Jackson's plans for the prosecution of war criminals are ideas of such import that they are likely to become historic.

Justice Jackson proclaims the right to try the makers of war for making war, the right, when civilization itself is outraged, to impose sentences which were not provided prior to the crime, and the right of humanity to sit in judgment.

In answer to those who fear we cannot reach the Nazi criminals through present international law, and who feel the sanctity of legal precedent is more important than any miscarriage which may occur through its preservation, he says that there is no reason international law should not be built up as we have built our own common law—through the application of public conscience to incidents of the moment.

The justice proposes to try whole organizations—the Nazi party, the SS, the Gestapo—and then put it up to the members individually to offer mitigating evidence as to the effect of their connections.

He does not believe that anyone who commits a new crime, or who devises variations on an old one with which public conscience is only now catching up, should go free until a law is passed (especially when there is as yet no organization for passing the law) which would only catch the next offender.

Mr. Jackson is insistent that all we do in this case shall be capable of standing the searching light of history—that aggressive war—making shall stand from now on as prima facie crime, established as such in passionless dignity, and punishable.

He is preparing for the United States to proceed alone in individual cases if necessary, but is hopeful for establishment of an international tribunal which can truthfully be said to represent the peace loving peoples of the world.

And in this we come to what may be the most historic portion of the whole pronouncement.

There have been international courts, and there is talk of a new one. Never yet has there been a real one, nor is there now any immediate prospect. But Justice Jackson's proposal to make the war criminal trials something like what lawyers call a case in equity, contains the germ of something far more important than the immediate fate of the war criminals.

Equity, in Anglo-Saxon legal procedure, is the application of right and justice to the settlement of disputes which the law does not cover specifically. Under our law, it is primarily a civil procedure.

So here we have the possible foundation of a great international court founded on equity.

Could it be that this court's demonstration will prove the need of an extension? That some day the nations will establish a court in equity before which they all may come, each of the peer of the other regardless of size or length of sword, each short of veto power, standing before the bar for settlement of their disputes even as do their individual citizens?

tributes a monthly bulletin; the Soviet Information Bureau in Moscow transmits articles and news releases by cable and radio to the American Press, and the all-Union Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries (VOKS) sends publications and exhibit materials directly to individuals and organizations in the United States.

Propaganda now is far different from the often anti-democratic type handed out by the Axis nations before the war, said Biddle. He added:

"The great bulk of propaganda distributed since 1942 has been designed to create good will for foreign governments and deals mainly with their contributions to the common war effort and to aspects of their history, culture and present-day problems."

Prosecutions under the registration act and under a somewhat similar provision of espionage statutes have resulted in 41 criminal proceedings involving 125 defendants since 1938, the report said.

HEREFORD SALE HERE AVERAGES $433 PER HEAD

Hundreds Pack New Pavilion And Buyers Come from Six States Outside Ohio

The 58 pure bred and registered Herefords that went on the Auction block in the new sales pavilion at the Fairground here Saturday in the Fayette County Hereford Association's second annual sale brought a total of $25,145 for an overall average of $433.53 a head.

The average at the second sale was nearly double that of the first one held last year. Better cattle and in better shape for sale and showing were given part of the credit for the increase in prices. But, association members were convinced that the tendency among more and more farmers to improve their herd through introduction of registered stock was the more potent factor in pushing up the bids.

After the sale, association officers pointed out that many of the cattle were bought by "just plain dirt farmers" in the immediate section and then added that "this is one of the main purposes of these sales."

The sale took on all the aspects of a cattle show the day before the first bid was called for. Visitors began coming Friday. Early Saturday they started going through the two barns adjoining the sales pavilion and long before noon the aisles between the stalls literally were crowded.

From mid-morning Saturday until long after the sale had ended reliable estimates placed the crowd at about 1,000 as interested visitors came and went. During the sale, the bleachers around the arena and the gateways were packed with an estimated 700 to 800. Many farmers brought their wives.

The Conner School P-T.A. which served lunch on the grounds, was "cleaned out of everything" in the way of food.

The crowd was admittedly much larger than had been anticipated—and association officials had looked for a big one.

There was a general agreement among association members and cattlemen that this sale was, as one expressed it, "better than the state association's sale" in Columbus last April. The state sale average was $396 compared to the average of $433.53 at the sale here.

Both the top bull and top female of the sale here were consigned by the Bea-Mar Farms. The bull brought $2,250 and was sold to R. V. Bruce of Williamsburg, Ky. The cow was bought by Pete Weidner of Jeromesville, O.

While there were buyers here from six states—Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Alabama—in addition to nearly every section of Ohio, six members of the association bought animals out of the sale. Ray Brandenburg bid off one of Emerson Marting's heifers for $600, and Bea-Mar Farms bought one of Baldwin Rice's heifers for $725. Harold C. Mark, Homer McCoy and Son and Roy Griffith also bought animals consigned by fellow members of the association.

Col. Fred Reppert, an authority on Herefords and a specialist in registered livestock auctions, cried the sale. He was assisted in the ring by W. O. Bumgarner, Frank E. Ellis, of Washington C. H., Jewett Fulkerson of the American Hereford Journal and Melvin Liechty of Decatur, Ind.

L. P. McCann, the beef cattle specialist of the Ohio State University, came here for the sale. He was profuse with his praise of Fayette County Herefords and highly complimentary of the association's sale.

BIBLE QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY THE VOICE OF PROPHECY

INTERNATIONAL BIBLE BROADCASTERS

Question—What is the greatest commandment God ever gave to men?

Answer—Matthew 22:36-38: "Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment."

Q.—Who was the first man to live in a tent?

A.—As far as the record goes, it was Jabal. (Genesis 4:20.)

Q.—Does the Book say anything about eating blood?

A.—Genesis 9:4: "But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat." See Leviticus 17:10-14; Acts 15:28, 29.

Q.—Can you prove from the Bible that there is to be more than one resurrection?

A.—"Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear His voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." John 5:28, 29.

Q.—Did folks say "Hello" and "Good-by" in Bible times?

A.—Some Bible salutations are: "Peace be with thee." Judges 19:20. "The Lord be with you." Ruth 2:4. "The Lord bless thee." Ruth 2:4. "God be gracious unto thee." Genesis 43:29. "Art thou in health?" 2 Samuel 20:9. "Hail!" Matthew 26:49. "All hail!" Matthew 28:9. Our good-by is a form of "God be with you."

Q.—Do you think a man is more likely to be saved if he gives lots of money to the church?

A.—A truly converted man will bring gifts for God's cause, not in order to be saved, but because he has been saved. No man can bribe God with worldly wealth or even with a human sacrifice. "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" Micah 6:8. Those who do good out of a loving heart are abundantly blessed. In Matthew 25:40-46 we read that the givers had forgotten they had ever given anything.

The lower chamber of the Japanese Diet today passed an amended wartime emergency bill, the Tokyo radio broadcast, giving Premier Kantaro Suzuki's government virtual authority to rule Japan by decree.

R. B. THARP BUYS RESTAURANT FROM J. WOLFE

He Took Over Monday Less Than Month After Wolfe Purchased It

R. B. (Bud) Tharp is the owner of Wright's Restaurant now. He took over the business Monday less than a month after Jack Wolfe, former police chief here, purchased the restaurant from Ben Wright.

Tharp plans to continue Monday closings but on other days will be open from 7 A.M. to 8 P.M. His aim will be to "try to give the public what it wants—if I can get it."

He will use the equipment now in the restaurant and will replace some of it later. There will be no change in personnel for the present.

Tharp is one of the most active American Legion members here. He served as adjutant for 20 years, as commander for three years and was at one time state treasurer. He was deputy at the Probate Court for seven years before becoming secretary of the First Federal Savings and Loan Company. He also was service officer at the Legion post. Besides his Legion affiliations, Tharp is a member of the Lions Club, the Fair Board, the Eagles, Elks and Mason lodges.

Wright purchased the restaurant from Capt. H. Condon Campbell when he entered the service three years ago. Wright is expected to be drafted soon.

Radio Tokyo said it was believed the House of Peers would pass the bill in its revised form.

With his conquest in the East Indies isolated from the empire, the rich resources rendered valueless, his naval and air arms in the Indies rendered impotent, his ground troops immobilized and unable to obtain reinforcements or supplies, the enemy invader definitely has lost the war of strategy in the Southwest Pacific, a headquarters spokesman said.

If the Allies could obtain Borneo oil readily, it would be equivalent to a gigantic increase in the tanker fleet that now must haul fuel across the Pacific. Borneo's oil is highly-prized for its purity.

MacArthur credited bold torpedo boat crews with shelling shore installations around Sandakan on Borneo's northeast coast and with sinking two small enemy cargo vessels and several luggers.

CBS Correspondent John Adams reported today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur visited the Labuan beachhead on the west coast of Borneo only a few hours after Allied troops landed and was at the front lines during a brief skirmish in which two Japanese were killed.

Broadcasting from Manila, Adams said that when he had left Brunei Bay eight hours earlier, Australian forces were still driving forward at a steady pace.

Veterans of Tobruk and El Alamein had captured the airport with light casualties, he said.

The newest phase of the Borneo campaign was launched by the Australian Ninth Division.

Previously Tokyo announced that an Allied division invaded Labuan Island at the entrance to Brunei Bay, outlet for northwest

Borneo's petroleum wealth and once a Japanese fleet refueling depot.

Gen Douglas MacArthur told of record bombings of the area.

The Japanese homeland smoldered today from its worst weekend of war—four consecutive days of devastating attacks by American warplanes ranging from gigantic B-29 Superfortresses to speedy Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters and Navy carrier planes.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday the Americans struck again and again, hurling high-explosive bombs and bullets into Japan's aircraft factories, rail yards, airfields and other military targets in five separate raids.

Radio Tokyo said 30 Mustangs, led by two B-29s, fired installations at Tachikawa and Atsuki air fields in the Tokyo-Yokohama area Monday. It reported the fighters strafed the fields for an hour.

Sunday's strike was made by 250 to 300 B-29s on five factory and military targets in the already ravaged Tokyo and Kokohama districts. Reconnaissance photos showed that the Hitachi Engineering Works and adjacent railway yards at Sukagawa alone were struck by 820 bombs.

Results were reported good on the other targets.

Japanese anti-aircraft fire was reported meager to moderate. One Superfortress was lost, but two-based Mustangs on escort duty destroyed 26 Japanese interceptors and probably destroyed 10 more without loss.

This follows up a four day air war in which at least 98 Japanese planes were destroyed, 10 U. S. planes lost, one small U. S. warship sunk, and Japanese cities and suicide air bases liberally bombed and strafed. Most strikes were concentrated on Nipponese air power.

The sustained blows started last Thursday when 450 B-29s bombed Osaka and Okinawa Thunderbolt fighters raided Kyushu Island airmen.

Swarms of carrier Hellicats hit the Kyushu fields in southern Japan Friday. Saturday between 100 and 150 fighter-escorted B-29s heavily damaged three aircraft plants and Thunderbolts raided airmen.

Sunday close to 300 Superforts bombed factories and airmen in the vicinity of Tokyo. They scored 820 direct hits on an airplane engine plant and railway yards at Sukagawa, 115 miles northeast of Tokyo.

Battleships and cruisers bombarded Okinawa Daito, 300 miles southeast of Okinawa Saturday, and Tokyo reported they shifted to shelling Minami Daito Sunday.

Naval, field and aerial artillery supported three U. S. divisions cracking in on a three-mile long escarpment on southern Okinawa. In the center, the 96th division scored gains of 800 to 1,000 yards in the face of heavy enemy fire and some elements scaled steep, cave-studded slopes.

The 7th Infantry repulsed two major counterattacks and many smaller ones as it pressed toward the eastern end of the escarpment. The First Marine Division on the West, supported by 75 MM. guns firing from amphibious tractors, moved so fast Japanese supply planes parachuted demolition supplies behind the Yank lines.

On Luzon Island in the northern Philippines, the U. S. 37th Division liberated Solano and Bagabag in a rapid push that carried them to within 12 miles of Cagayan Valley.

CROPS ARE INSURED ON 178,000 FARMS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Crops on about 178,000 farms have been covered by federal insurance this spring, the War Food Administration announced today.

About 15,000 applications covered the spring wheat on 26,000 farms, about 98,000 were for cotton on 116,000 farms and about 30,000 applications were for flax on 36,000 farms, WFA said.

Farmers may insure either 75 percent or 50 percent of their average winter wheat yield. Deadline for applications is Sept. 15 in Ohio.

Why the Biggest Job in town carries no pay!

WHAT is the biggest job in your town—in anybody's town, between May 14th and June 30th?

It's that of the man or woman who will ask you to buy extra War Bonds in the 7th War Loan.

It carries no pay because the people who are doing this work are good Americans. In addition to buying extra Bonds themselves, they're willing to give their time to a job that's as important as anything outside the battle lines.

It's important — and it's big. Making our quotas in the 7th War Loan is a man-sized job for everybody.

Uncle Sam needs 7 billion dollars from individual Americans in the 7th! That's a bigger quota than ever before. It's bigger because this is really 2 loans in 1—last year, by this time, we had bought Bonds in 2 loans instead of one.

And it's bigger because the need is bigger. We're building up a whole new air force, with new jet-propelled planes and even huger bombers. We're building more tanks, mortars, and everything for the increasingly bitter struggle with Japan. And we're paying the mounting cost of victory—taking care of wounded men who are arriving in this country by thousands every month.

So—be ready when one of these War Bond workers comes to you. Open your door, your heart, your purse—for the 7th War Loan.

Help America to make its quota—by making yours!

FIND YOUR QUOTA . . . AND MAKE IT!

Civilizing the Germans
Apparently the fear of a new surge of German militarism in the near future is not justified. According to some pretty good authorities, the Germans themselves have settled that. They simply haven't, and won't have for another generation or two, enough man power for another big war.
As nearly as can be determined at present, the German population, omitting prisoners of war who may not return, now appears to total about 60,000,000. Of these some 36,000,000 are said to be women, leaving only 24,000,000 men. It seems unlikely that, with such a great superiority of females, the Germans could muster enough man-power to wage modern war for many years, quite aside from lack of the material resources that would be required. Present-day Germany will be, very properly, so poor for at least a generation that she cannot regain her military power.

What she can do, however, is to make the best of things and turn to a field which has almost been ignored in the last two decades. That is, a reeducation of German youth, teaching them the facts and decencies of modern life. In short, it is a job of re-civilization, to save whatever merit can still be found in the German race.

Is Our Program Real?
One of the characteristics of the present is its immense destructiveness. This appears especially in our wars, by which one great city after another is left a hopeless ruin.

Another feature is the rapid change in modes of life and ways of doing things. It seems almost as if people merely going off on summer vacations are likely to find notable changes when they get back.

And are those sweeping changes an improvement? Not necessarily. For people—especially Americans—tend more and more to regard change in itself as essential, and pay an unnecessary amount of homage to mere gadgets. Wealth apparently tends more and more to consist in mere THINGS, rather than greater enlightenment of the mind and spirit of men, and a finer faculty for their cooperating with each other instead of fighting.

In short, with all its merits and abilities, some of our philosophers maintain that what we call progress is an elusion, and in some important ways we are going down instead of up.

Soloman on Housing
As everybody knows, this is a difficult time for service men and their families. But a landlord in Cleveland seems to have solved the problem.

His name is Soloman; and like his namesake, he is a great lover of children. Instead of shooing prospective tenants away when they have children or indications thereof, he encourages them to come and live in his apartments. Not only that, but he actually pays a bonus for children born on his property.

Soloman has a standard rate for such procedure, paying $5 in war stamps for

Train Safety
There has been some criticism of the railroads during the last years. People complain that trains are late, or meals too simple, or service bad. It makes an onlooker suspect that these are chronic complainers, whose personal convenience comes before the general interest.

Seldom do they have a real argument. Trains may be late, but they do arrive. Luxury service may not be on tap, but passengers find legitimate needs provided for. And, in spite of wear on equipment subjected to extraordinary demands, they arrive safely.

The safety record of our wartime transportation is amazing. Much of it is due to the years of forethought which have produced such devices as the "dead man's throttle." One of those levers, which are so contrived that the moment the engineer's grasp lessens the train stops, saved the lives of 200 passengers the other day in New Jersey. The engineer had a heart attack, which in former years could have meant death or injury to passengers, crew and the train itself. But as his hand slipped from the throttle, the train came to a halt without hurting a person.

Common sense should dictate an early surrender in Japan—so that's likely what they won't do!

The bluff you try to get by on is the easiest one to fall over.

Washington at a Glance By JACK STINNETT

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — The kettle already has started simmering under postwar plans for universal military training; and before the fire is quenched, the kettle may blow its lid.
Few more controversial subjects have come before Congress, but don't misunderstand the hearings now going on before Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum (D-Va.) special committee on post-war military policy.
This isn't a debate on any specific bill and the committee itself is not authorized to draw up or present any legislation. The object merely is to get both sides and all shades of thought on the matter into the record. It may be a guide to legislation and the final vote — nothing more.
The 23 members of Woodrum's committee represent almost all those shades of thought on whether the years ahead will see our youth undergoing a year or more of military training before they reach the average college age. The more than 100 individuals slated to appear before the committee are equally representative.

After that (but certainly not before fall or early winter) will come the bills, more committee hearings, the floor fights and eventually the votes on what many think may be one of the nation's most important pieces of legislation in determining our future place in world affairs.
A little announcement the other day by Robert W. Horton, public relations director of the U. S. Maritime Commission (and incidentally one of the few press relations chiefs permitted to make statements in his own name) slipped by without the notice it deserved.
It was to the effect that plans have been completed for resumption of normal ship news coverage in the Gulf and Atlantic seaboard areas.
This, of course, doesn't include any information on troop transport movements or the shipping of vital war supplies headed in either direction for the Orient, but it does mean that so far as the reporting of commercial cargo arrivals and departures in the Atlantic are concerned, the war is over.

There will continue to be censorship on restricted destinations and points of origin of military importance, but the announcement once again is proof that some agencies in the government are doing their best to lead the world back to freedom of news and freedom of the press, even if others are clinging to what some observers here claim are unnecessary wartime restrictions.
A lieutenant commander in the Navy Bureau of Ordnance arrived at his office the other morning, ready to dictate, only to find his secretary was late. When the secretary arrived, she found this memo from her boss in the typewriter: "Things are going from bad to worse around here and DeGaulle of some secretaries Hess Stalin the war effort. Prompt Relief for Bleeding in Ulcer

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.
IT has been estimated that between 10 and 60 per cent of those persons who have ulcers of the stomach and first part of the bowel have bleeding from these ulcers. It is said that the number of bleeding ulcers is increasing, due to the abnormal physical and mental strain associated with the war. Bleeding generally occurs because a small artery at the base of the ulcer is eroded or broken open.

When Ulcer Bleeds
Should an ulcer begin to bleed, the patient should be put to bed, rest at once. Visitors should be kept away. These two things will help to bring on relaxation, which in turn helps to lessen the amount of acid in the stomach and decrease the movements of the stomach, giving the ulcer a chance to heal.

It is also important to quiet the patient, to lessen his fears, since anxiety and fear also increase the secretions and activity of the stomach. The patient should realize that bleeding is a frequent complication in ulcers and that it responds well to the proper treatment.
If the patient is restless, the physician may give him such a drug as morphine in certain instances. Other physicians use such drugs as phenobarbital.
Another step in the treatment is to give plenty of fluids. The fluids may be given by mouth, or by injection under the skin when there is vomiting.

If these two methods do not give the patient sufficient fluids, the fluids may be injected directly into a vein.
If the patient's pulse rate gets too fast or his blood pressure begins to fall because of the bleeding, the injection of blood into a vein may be life-saving.
Laxative drugs should not be employed. About the fifth day of treatment, injection into the lower bowel, that is an enema, may be employed to produce a bowel movement, if it is necessary.

Further Steps
Further steps in the treatment consist in giving alkalies such as baking soda and magnesium subcarbonate. Iron-containing drugs may also be employed.
Not so many years ago, when a patient had a bleeding ulcer he was starved for a period of time. At present he is at once given a diet made up of milk, cream, butter, eggs, strained cereals and other soft foods. Feedings are given at two-hour intervals between 8:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

In a very few instances of bleeding ulcer, operation may be required, depending on the extent of the bleeding. With modern treatment, prompt relief usually is obtained.

"Blessed is he who has found his work," said Carlyle; "let him ask no other blessedness." But for him who has been found by his work it is necessary to find play to complete the recipe for happiness. And for him who is idle, play is the only comfort. However, in work that is play is found the only true happiness.
Play is only a willing form of work, and those whose work is not appointed for them by a kind Providence have to invent play of some sort at which they may work to occupy their time and facilities.

"RENDEZVOUS"
For just a brief while every day I steal away from Duty
And leave the indoor tasks undone,
To drench my soul in Beauty,
The bird song and lily bells,
Music thin and sweet;
Sun gold and starry blooms
Lashed at my feet;
Cool mist, with crystal beads
Gleaming everywhere;
Wild plum and pink thorn
Hanging on the air.
Swiftly, then, I can return

Prince of the Pampas by LOIS EBY AND JOHN C. FLEMING
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION
SYNOPSIS
TERRY ARNOLD, a young Vermont newspaperman, has written a fairly successful novel. To gather material for a second book she has gone to the Argentine, her subject matter to be the wealthy playboy set of that Latin-American country.
Other characters are: BROOKS KIMBERLY, owner of Ullimo Ventura, a race horse; CORINNE ARTIGAS, Kimberly's fiancée; and RAFF CARDOBA, architect and friend of Kimberly.
YESTERDAY: Terry decides that because of the scene she created when she slipped Raff the night before that she will have to leave the beautiful estate where she is visiting, but Raff sends a note which patches their quarrel and Terry sees the beginning of a project which will give the gauchos families new homes.
CHAPTER FOURTEEN
THIN SHAFTS of early morning sunshine were invading the somber dining room. The baroness glanced sleepily at the tiny diamond watch on her wrist, then in one sweeping motion of her head took in everyone around the table.
"Don't know what I'm coming to," she said frostily. "Eating breakfast at such an ungodly hour. It's not yet 8 o'clock."
Jime smiled her amusement. "I'll bet it's the first time you've been up before noon in years."
The baroness replaced her coffee cup in her saucer noisily and glared.
Raff gave Terry a swift sideward glance, winking as he spoke. "I think these mornings on the pampa are utterly delightful—best time of the day, really."
Terry returned the wink. "I quite agree," she smiled.
"Perhaps they might appeal to the adolescent mind," the baroness retorted, clicking the ice in her water glass. "My personal opinion has always been that the Creator intended the mornings for sleeping. Night is the only time for civilized people to be up and about."
Cigarettes were passed as the servant noiselessly started clearing dishes.
"What time are we leaving for town?" Corinne asked.
"I told Manuel to have the plane ready by eight-thirty. He's sending up the station wagon for us about 20 minutes after," Jime said briskly.
"I guess I had better run up and finish packing my bag."
"You mean you're not coming back with us tonight?"
Corinne smiled slowly. "I think not, Jime dear. I have such a full week in town." She turned her smile toward Brooks. "Then, too, Brooks will be gone."
"You mean I'm not enough for you?" Raff grinned.
"Maybe you're too much, darling. Anyway, you'll still have Jime, Roxie and Terry to look after. For one man that would seem like enough."
The women went upstairs to repair their makeup. Raff started toward the trophy room to collect his drawings, while Brooks went into the library for a last look at his campaign speech. Jime was the first to come down the long, winding staircase. She knocked on the library door and when she heard Brooks' voice she went in, closing the door behind her. Brooks was surrounded by papers at the desk. Jime stood by his elbow. Her small gloved fingers ran lightly through her son's crisp, dark curls.
"What time does your train leave tonight, son?"
Brooks smiled. "Eight fifteen, from Kimberly station."
"You're not nervous about speaking?"
"I'm never nervous until it's all over."
Deep affection shone in Jime's eyes. "I think we'll be back before you go. If not, I'll be thinking of you every moment."
"Don't forget to tune in at nine Thursday night. You know my speech will be broadcast."
Jime kissed him lightly on the forehead. "How could I forget that, darling. I've been thinking about it for weeks."
When Jime came out the front door into the glare of the sunshine, Corinne, the baroness and Raff were already seated in the waiting station wagon. Raff alighted quickly and held open the door while Jime got in.
It was high noon when the gleaming, black sedan that had whisked them from the Buenos Aires airport to the Plaza hotel drew up to the curb. The day had been made for flying. Manuel had kept at low altitude merely because he enjoyed the look of complete rapture that held Terry's face. Promptly after they had taken to the air the baroness had dropped off to sleep, occasionally emitting queer sounds faintly reminiscent of air rushing from an inner tube. Raff had buried himself in his sketches and coat figures, while Jime seemed cozily content to rest her head back against the cushions and watch the countryside unfold below them. Corinne had busied herself making notes in a small leather book.
As they stood on the sidewalk Jime turned to Corinne, saying, "At least, you'll lunch with us, dear."
Corinne consulted the watch that dangled from the lapel of her tweed suit. "I'd love to," she said. "I'm meeting Vina for shopping at four. There'll be plenty of time."
The party proceeded to the cool, quietness of the hotel dining room. Unobtrusively, in the background, soothing string music drifted from an unknown source. The dark-skinned, sleek-haired waiters moved over the heavy carpets with an oiled efficiency.
After a waiter had taken the order and melted through a swinging door, the baroness retrieved a delicately carved, ivory cigarette

VETERANS' GUIDE BY MAJOR THOMAS M. NIAL

Washington—Way up in Alaska, a Global War veteran reads this stuff of mine in the Anchorage Times. He wrote a nice letter but, like all GI's and ex-GI's, he had a couple of gripes—one about the subsistence allowance for a vet who goes in for the GI Bill education scheme and the other about loans as planned in the GI Bill. You might be interested in his two kiicks and my answer, so here's the way I wrote to him.
"Your interesting and thoughtful letter finally got down to me here but I haven't had time until now to acknowledge.
"You ask if it's possible for a married man to clothe, board and provide living quarters for his wife and himself while going to school full time on $75 a month. It's possible but of course difficult.
"Yet I don't think we should sneer at $75 a month. It seems a small sum for a man and wife when I think of it as a number of dollars. But when I consider that the government will agree to pay for all tuition, books, supplies and fees up to 500 bucks a school year plus $75 a month for a man and wife, it seems to be a generous proposition.
"I can't forget that thousands and millions of young men in the past have taken training courses and gone through years of college education on their own—with no financial help from the federal government or from anyone.
"They have worked part-time, they have worked and saved during summer vacations and thus, wanting knowledge, got it despite financial difficulties. So when the government offers the GI Education program to veterans—offers a year of training to any qualified ex-service man regardless of age, and more than a year to those whose education was interrupted by service—I can't help but feel that it's rather a handsome offer after all.
"The young man who, before he entered service, intended to get some education or was getting it, is certainly in a better position now. If his folks were paying his way, they're now relieved of most and probably all of the school costs, and he has $50 more a month than his parents would have given him for personal expenses. He would not lose any of the 50 dollars, if he had (or earned) any other income or if his parents contributed.
"If he was working his way or intended to do so, he now will be able practically to loaf through, because he'll only have to work enough to collect a little extra dough for subsistence.
"Along about the middle of your letter, in writing about the 4 percent interest rate which is the maximum permitted for a veterans' Government-guaranteed loan, you say, 'we know that these institutions (private lending institutions) are not going to lend money at 4 percent to veterans when they can get 6 percent or more elsewhere.'
"But the facts don't say so. Already 3,389 loans for homes, farms and business under the GI Bill guaranteed-loan plan have been made to veterans by private institutions. None of them are over 4 percent either.
"I have a hunch there would be many more, if prices weren't generally above ordinary or average values. The Veterans' Administration can't complete a guaranteed loan if the price to be paid for the property is greater than a reasonable normal value. I'd guess this throws out the possibility of many loans.

"But bankers and other lenders generally are anxious to help the veterans and often would make a loan to a veteran at the 4 percent rate, but are stopped by the fact that the V.A. can't guaranty on account of how the doggone property cost is excessive.
"I've heard it said that some lenders who don't like the low 4 percent rate are scared to refuse (if the V.A. will guarantee) because public and government opinion is with the veteran, and the refusal of loans to veterans, because only a low interest rate is allowed, might create odors as the facts begin to boil out to the public."

U. S. aerial photographers were so accurate that they were able to estimate, within 40 men, the 4,000 Japanese soldiers on a South Pacific island.

Flower Mission Program Attended By Fifty Persons

Nearly fifty W.C.T.U. members from unions throughout Fayette County assembled at the Fayette County Children's Home on Sunday afternoon when the annual flower mission program was presented under the direction of the chairman, Mrs. F. E. Haines. "My Country 'Tis Of Thee" was the opening song sung by the group and then Mrs. John Van Gundy gave the devotionals and a short talk to the children after Mr. David Whiteside, superintendent of the Home, welcomed the guests. Rev. John Glenn gave prayer.

Various talented children of the Home then presented an entertaining hour of readings and songs which delighted the appreciative guests.

Beverly Baughn then gave a reading and Lois Jett, a vocal solo. Her mother, Mrs. Floyd Jett and Lois then sang a duet, accompanied by Mr. Jett. Three young girls, Nancy Hurt, Judy Preston and Nancy Reno, were a trio who sang a number. Patty Hart gave a reading and Mac Glenn gave a trombone solo.

Miss Ruby Edwards' piano solo concluded the afternoon's program.

The fifty-one children of the Home were treated with ice-cream at their noon-day and evening meal, the treat being from the W.C.T.U. members.

The singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" closed the program.

Sunday School Class Met at Wilson Home

Mrs. Noah Wilson was a cordial hostess when she entertained the Willing Workers Sunday School Class of the Staunton Church at her home with Mrs. Matthew McDonald as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Robert Smith conducted a short business meeting when Mrs. W. E. Brannon had charge of the devotionals. Group singing of "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" opened the meeting. Mrs. Paul Leeth was in charge of the Bible study.

A pleasant social hour followed and each enjoyed the serving of tempting refreshments by the hostess and her assistant.

Aowakiya Campfire Girls

Jean Ann Boylan was hostess to the Aowakiya Campfire Girls organization when they held their regular meeting, last week, at which time they practised their work for the council fire.

At the conclusion of the meeting, light refreshments were served by the hostess.

Marlene Matthews will be hostess to the club this Thursday.

Local fans will have an opportunity to see some of the most beautiful girls in the world in one of the zaniest Mexican comedies ever to be produced, when they see Samuel Goldwyn's, "The Kid from Spain," which brings banjo-eyed Eddie Cantor to the State Theatre for two days on Wednesday and Thursday.

Also on the same program—Columbia Pictures' "The Unwritten Code" which opens Wednesday. It turns the spotlight on Nazi prisoner-of-war camps here in America. This new drama is timely and startling, and lets the public know of the Gestapo's reign of terror behind the barbed wire of our enemy internment camps. Out of the screaming headlines of today's and tomorrow's newspapers, comes this story of rioting prisoners, plans for sabotage, Nazis fighting among themselves. Action is packed into every scene right from the opening sequence when a submarine sinks an Allied ship which is carrying German war prisoners to the United States. In the general disorder, a prisoner steals the papers of a wounded English officer, kills him and assumes his identity. Reaching America, he feigns continued illness, meanwhile planning how he can serve the Nazi cause. He is hospitalized near an internment camp, and plots to arm all the prisoners and let them loose on the community.

Eagles Keep Slate Clean But Good Hope Is Tough

The Eagles kept their Tri-County Baseball League slate clean Sunday, but they had a hard time doing it, when they shut out the Good Hope boys, 3 to 0, on the Good Hope lot Sunday in the fourth game of the loop's schedule.

At the opposite side of the county, Jeffersonville was taking a 5 to 1 beating from the Sabina team in what was the league opener at Jeffersonville while, down at Greenfield, Milledgeville was taking a 9 to 3 set back.

Official score keepers of the Sabina-Jeffersonville game failed to file their box score with the league secretary, Bob Bailey, but reports coming into headquarters said it was one of those ding-dong affairs that had been expected.

The Eagles' victory over Good Hope left them still atop the league standing with four straight wins. And with it there was a feeling of relief, for the Good Hope boys put up such a dazzling game in the field that the Eagles were able to count but 3 runs from 10 safe hits. There was not a sign of an error by either team during the entire nine innings. Seven Eagles were stranded on the base paths.

Lefty Wackman, going in his best form, held Bob Herdman's boys to three hits.

Hoskins, the first sacker, drove in all of the Eagle runs by getting three hits in four trips. Bentley and Cahill each got two for four.

RED BIRDS DROP TWO

(By the Associated Press)

That three-cornered fight for the American Association lead became a bit hotter today, with Louisville in the top spot and Milwaukee's defending champion Brewers still in third, but only a game and a half off the pace.

St. Paul's Saints beat Columbus twice, 17-6 and 3-2, to climb into sixth place, while Louisville was knocking off Kansas City in both ends of a doubleheader, 3-2 and 5-2 yesterday. Indianapolis, meanwhile, lost two games to the title-defending Brewers, 5-3 and 7-2, to drop from first to second place.

Louisville, with a twilight-night doubleheader with Kansas City today on tap, held a half-game lead over Indianapolis. Milwaukee, with two games scheduled tonight, was a game back of the Indians. The Brewers had the Indians scheduled for tonight's doubleheader, and then move to Louisville for four games starting tomorrow.

In the other Association double bill, Toledo edged out Minneapolis, 4-3, in ten innings in the first game, and then dropped an 8-2 decision in the second.

He also built the "Charlie Moran" Highway, on which Moran, former Centre coach and major league umpire, now lives. . . . Through the efforts of Robert D. Yankees Go Back into Lead By Beating Red Sox Rookie

By JOE REICHLER

By the Associated Press

The Ferriss wheel has stopped turning.

After gathering eight straight victories, Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the Boston Red Sox sensational rookie, finally was defeated yesterday, 3-2, by the New York Yankees in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain.

Hank Borowy gained the Yankee victory to put his team back in first place, a half-game ahead of the Detroit Tigers, who split with the White Sox.

A crowd of 38,114 paid, who braved incessant rain, saw Ferriss fail to overtake the league rookie record of Atley Donald of the Yankees who won 12 straight victories from the start of the 1939 season. Ferriss tied the American League mark of Johnny Whitehead of the White Sox who won his first eight major league starts in 1936.

Dizzy Trout gained his first victory in more than a month when he pitched the Tigers to their fifth straight triumph in the opener against the White Sox, 3-2, but he needed the help of Hal Newhouse in the ninth. Catcher Paul Richards hit a grand slam homer for the Tigers in the nightcap, but the Sox came to life to pound three Tiger tossers for 15 hits and a 9-4 decision.

Pittsburgh's Pirates came from behind twice to win two 10-inning games from the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-6 and 4-1, and take over second place in the National League, only two games behind the New York Giants.

Homers in the extra-frames accounted for each of the Bucs' victories. Babe Dahlgren hit one with a mate aboard to win the opener, and Jimmy Russell duplicated in the finale.

The Braves moved into sixth place as Mort Cooper and Jim Tobin defeated the Giants, 8-5 and 3-1, for the Braves' sixth and seventh straight victories and their

Assault Charge Facing Durocher

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, Brooklyn Dodgers manager, and Joseph Moore, 50, a special policeman at Abbeys Field were to be arraigned today on charges of feloniously assaulting John Christian, 24, a spectator at Saturday night's Brooklyn-Philadelphia baseball game.

Christian, a United States custom guard and Dodge fan, identified them as the two men who beat him because he heckled Durocher.

Police said Durocher and Moore denied they had hit anyone. They were arrested yesterday and released in bail of $1,000 each.

Christian is in Kings County Hospital with a fractured jaw and other injuries.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Grains, firm to strong in early futures trading, slipped after mid-session today, with wheat and rye at times showing losses of as much as a cent. Corn and oats were steady.

Many speculators awaited release this afternoon of the government's report of June 1 crop conditions. All markets were quiet after the early flurry of buying that followed further reports of a shortage of freight cars in grain producing areas.

At the finish wheat was 1/4c to 1/2c lower than Saturday's close, July $1.67 1/2. Corn was 1/4c to 1/2c lower, September $1.18 1/2. Oats were 1/4c higher to 1/2c lower, July 66-68 1/2c. Rye was unchanged to 1/2c, July $1.42 1/2c. Barley was 1/2c to 1/4c down, July $1.12 1/2c.

● It has been said that lines of communication are a prime factor in the Pacific war. With us, this is literally true. Tons of especially designed communications equipment are being produced by Western Electric, manufacturing unit of the Bell Telephone System, to link our far-flung forces stretching across the Pacific.

Life of this equipment is short. It must be built to withstand the rigors of attack on land and sea and treated against damage from tropical fungus growth. For this reason all of our resources cannot be thrown immediately into the huge task of manufacturing and installing all the telephones, cables, dial equipment and switchboards to provide telephone service for every civilian who wants it.

Our first job is supplying the hungry communication lines of the Pacific. When final victory releases us from this first duty, we will go ahead at full speed with our program to make service available to everyone as soon as possible. It will be a big job, requiring a large part of the $60,000,000 that we have allocated for improvements and extensions during the first two years following victory.
